Victorian silver hunting horn clock

William Frederick Williams

£2,250

REF: 8248

Height: 205 mm (8.07")

Diameter: 65 mm (2.56")

Description

Of fox hunting or horse riding interest, this late-Victorian-era antique silver-cased clock has been created in the form of a hunting horn, featuring a horseshoe framing the clock face, and surmounted by a silver saddle.

With the clock in full working order, the hunting horn surround is engraved with an unidentified ducal coronet and engraving featuring the initial S and From A.V.T. 1884.
