Description

Pair of William IV King's Husk pattern silver gravy or sauce ladles in excellent condition. In a sign of superior quality, this pair of silver ladles are double struck, meaning the pattern appears on both sides of the ladles and, in this case, feature the husk pattern heel.

King's Husk is a variant of the ever popular King's pattern, was first produced in the Regency era (1811-1820) and is still made today.
