Description

The 1978 design of De Vecchi's sculptural Diana vase adopts a silhouette of excellence, the human face, and combines it with a sinuous abstract form creating a seamless consolidation of the two.

A partner to De Vecchi's Phoemina silver vase, this piece maintains a three-dimensional appearance with its inflated construction. With or without flowers, the expressive silhouetted faces of Diana and her sister, with ruffled locks and the light spots that run along the irregular outline, make them an evocative duo.
