Description

Excellent example of the novelty silver dumbbell cocktail shaker first introduced in 1932 when cocktail shakers, especially novelty ones, first came to prominence.

For the inner weightlifter, this great looking silver shaker has Art Deco styling and a three-piece design. One end screws off and is fitted with the strainer. Remove this part and fill with your favourite recipe.

Art Deco was a popular design style in the 1920s and 1930s characterised especially by sleek geometric or stylised forms. It represented luxury, glamour, exuberance, and faith in social and technological progress. For that reason silver cocktail and barware were popular categories of goods to reflect the style of the time.
